

2000 Statistical Report to the Legislature
on the Operations of NYS Temporary Assistance Programs

Introduction

This 2000 annual Statistical Report on the Operations of New York State Temporary Assistance Programs is provided pursuant to the Welfare Reform Act of 1997 (section 149 of Part B of Chapter 436 of the Laws of 1997), which requires the Office of Temporary and Disability Assistance (OTDA) and the Department of Labor (DOL) to provide annual data on a wide range of social service and employment related programs.

This report represents the work of staff from the OTDA, DOL, and the Department Of Health to meet the reporting requirements enumerated in the Law. Through these efforts, we have been able to provide much of the required data using our existing data infrastructure. Reporting on the remaining data awaits the delivery of various automated systems enhancements under development by our agencies and the Division of Information Technology (DOIT).

Questions regarding the contents of the report should be directed to George Cusack at the OTDA Bureau of Data Management and Analysis (474-1192) or Nancy Shambo at the DOL Division of Research and Statistics (457-6639).

General Comments:

The figures presented on these tables are based on Federal Fiscal Year 1999 data from the TANF quarterly reports submitted by New York State. Participation rates, characteristics and financial circumstances from these submittals have been officially released after review by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services/Administration for Children and Families (HHS/ACF).

The data published in this report reflect all individuals engaged in work activities, regardless of the number of hours in these activities, rather than only those meeting more restrictive participation criteria, as published by the HHS/ACF. Sample results for each month were inflated to reflect the universe of TANF cases as reported in Section 3 of the TANF quarterly report. For the count of each individual activity/transaction/characteristic appearing in this report, we followed the Federal methodology that averages monthly data to obtain fiscal year figures.

NEW YORK STATE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Data Related to Work Activities Subsidized or Otherwise Sponsored

Footnotes:

- 1 Average monthly number of TANF participants in subsidized work activities (subsidized private and public employment, and on-the-job training), work experience, job search/job readiness training, community service program, or providing child care services to an individual who is participating in a community service program. Recipients may be participating in more than one work activity. Subsidized work activities are not the only activities that count toward federal participation rate requirements. Additional activities can be found in Sections 149.2.d and 149.2.e.
- 2 Average monthly number of disabled individuals who are exempt from participating in work activities. Under Section 332-b of the Social Services Law, disabled individuals who are determined to be unable to engage in work activities are exempt in New York from participating in work activities. Despite this exemption, the TANF family is included in the calculation of the participation rate.
- 3 Average monthly number of individuals exempt from participating in work activities for other reasons. These data reflect recipients who are exempt from participating in work activities due to age, caring for a disabled family member in the home, being a victim of domestic violence, and VESID involvement. Despite this exemption, the TANF family is included in the calculation of the participation rate.
- 4 Average number of one-parent cases that have a child less than 1 year old who are disregarded from the participation rate calculation. Single custodial parents, or caretakers with a child under 12 months of age, who have not been required to participate are disregarded from the rate. The TANF family is thus excluded from the calculation of the participation rate. This disregard is limited to 12 months total during the 60 months lifetime limit.
- 5 Average monthly number of sanctioned individuals who are disregarded from the participation rate calculation. These data reflect recipients that are required to participate, but have been sanctioned for not participating. The cases in which these individuals are included are disregarded from the participation rate calculation as a result of being sanctioned during the reporting month, unless the case meets the required participation rate hours. These cases may be excluded from the calculation of the participation rate for up to 3 months during each federal fiscal year.
- 6 Average monthly number of TANF participants in subsidized/sponsored work activities by activity.
- 7 Average number of hours of participation per week per TANF participant in subsidized/sponsored work activities.

* Note: The standard error, or standard deviation, of a sample estimate indicates how close the sample estimate comes to the corresponding unknown measurement for the entire population. The standard error of a sample estimate gives us the precision, that is, the range in which the true population value most likely falls. The true population value is expected to lie between these limits. The confidence levels give us the likelihood or probability that it will fall within that range, that is, the assurance that the true value would fall in this range. A 95% confidence level tells us that if we pick 100 similar samples from the population, the sample estimate would fall within approximately plus or minus 2 standard errors of the true value in 95 of those samples. (These are referred to as the upper and lower confidence limits.)

For example, the annual average of the number of recipients of public assistance found to be exempt due to a disability is 37,300 with standard error 2,100. The lower confidence limit is  $37,300 - (2)(2,100) = 33,200$ , and the upper confidence limit is  $37,300 + (2)(2,100) = 41,400$ . While it is not likely that the true population value is exactly 37,300 (the value based on the sample), we are 95% confident that the true population value is between 33,200 and 41,400.

The standard errors of the number of participants possessing a given characteristic, e.g. engaged in a certain type of work activity, were obtained by calculating the standard error of the proportion of those individuals in the sample. The proportions were then applied to the total population of the TANF cases. Therefore, the result is a measure of the number of participants with a given characteristic in the entire population.

The results obtained were based on monthly stratified samples and the stratification process varied, thus the results are approximate. Stratification is a statistical process in which the total population is divided into mutually exclusive subpopulations, prior to sampling. This process was required by the federal government in order to better gauge the characteristics of the subpopulations.

The above expenditures cannot be distributed by county as several of the welfare employment programs are administered by providers who serve a multi-county geographic area.

(These are referred to as the upper and lower confidence limits.)

For example, the annual average of the number of recipients of public assistance found to be exempt due to a disability is 37,300 with standard error 2,100. The lower confidence limit is  $37,300 - (2)(2,100) = 33,200$ , and the upper confidence limit is  $37,300 + (2)(2,100) = 41,400$ . While it is not likely that the true population value is exactly 37,300 (the value based on the sample), we are 95% confident that the true population value is between 33,200 and 41,400.

The standard errors of the number of participants possessing a given characteristic, e.g. engaged in a certain type of work activity, were obtained by calculating the standard error of the proportion of those individuals in the sample. The proportions were then applied to the total population of TANF cases. Therefore, the result is a measure of the number of participants with a given characteristic in the entire population.

The results obtained were based on monthly stratified samples and the stratification process varied, thus the results are approximate. Stratification is a statistical process in which the total population is divided into mutually exclusive subpopulations, prior to sampling. This process was required by the federal government in order to better gauge the characteristics of the subpopulations.

\9 Average monthly number of TANF participants in education and training activities - total and by activity (vocational education, job skills training directly related to employment, education directly related to employment for individuals with no high school diploma or certificate of high school equivalency, or satisfactory school attendance for individuals with no high school diploma or certificate of high school equivalency). Training and educational activities are not the only activities that count toward federal participation rate requirements. Additional activities can be found in Sections 149.2.c and 149.2.d.

\10 Average number of hours of participation per week per TANF participant in education and training activities.

* Note: The standard error, or standard deviation, of a sample estimate indicates how close the sample estimate comes to the corresponding unknown measurement for the entire population. The standard error of a sample estimate gives us the precision, that is, the range in which the true population value most likely falls. The true population value is expected to lie between these limits. The confidence levels give us the likelihood or probability that it will fall within that range, that is, the assurance that the true value would fall in this range. A 95% confidence level tells us that if we pick 100 similar samples from the population, the sample estimate would fall within approximately plus or minus 2 standard errors of the true value in 95 of those samples. (These are referred to as the upper and lower confidence limits.)

For example, the annual average of the number of recipients of public assistance found to be exempt due to a disability is 37,300 with standard error 2,100. The lower confidence limit is  $37,300 - (2)(2,100) = 33,200$ , and the upper confidence limit is  $37,300 + (2)(2,100) = 41,400$ . J. Data related to disabled and work-limited recipients

(Also see General Comments in the work activities table Section 149.2.c.)

\11 Average monthly number of disabled individuals who are exempt from participating in work activities. Under Section 332-b of the Social Services Law disabled individuals who are determined to be unable to engage in work activities are exempt in New York from participating in work activities. Despite this exemption, the TANF family is included in the calculation of the participation rate.

* Note: The standard error, or standard deviation, of a sample estimate indicates how close the sample estimate comes to the corresponding unknown measurement for the entire population. The standard error of a sample estimate gives us the precision, that is, the range in which the true population value most likely falls. The true population value is expected to lie between these limits. The confidence levels give us the likelihood or probability that it will fall within that range, that is, the assurance that the true value would fall in this range. A 95% confidence level tells us that if we pick 100 similar samples from the population, the sample estimate would fall within approximately plus or minus 2 standard errors of the true value in 95 of those samples. (These are referred to as the upper and lower confidence limits.)

For example, the annual average of the number of recipients of public assistance found to be exempt due to a disability is 37,300 with standard error 2,100. The lower confidence limit is  $37,300 - (2)(2,100) = 33,200$ , and the upper confidence limit is  $37,300 + (2)(2,100) = 41,400$ . While it is not likely that the true population value is exactly 37,300 (the value based on the sample), we are 95% confident that the true population value is between 33,200 and 41,400.

The standard errors of the number of participants possessing a given characteristic, e.g. engaged in a certain type of work activity, were obtained by calculating the standard error of the proportion of those individuals in the sample. The proportions were then applied to total population of the TANF cases. Therefore, the result is a measure of the number of participants with a given characteristic in the entire population.

The results obtained were based on monthly stratified samples and the stratification process varied, thus the results are approximate. Stratification is a statistical process in which the total population is divided into mutually exclusive subpopulations, prior to sampling. This process was required by the federal government in order to better gauge the characteristics of the subpopulations.
